

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An adapter set is constructed to include a base, the base having at least one electric plug slot adapted to receive a respective cellular telephone connector for a respective model of cellular telephone, an AC adapter connected to the base and adapted to provide power supply to the cellular telephone connector in each electric plug slot to charge the battery of a respective model of cellular telephone, a function module holder fixedly provided at a bottom side of the base and electrically connected to the at least one electric plug slot, and a function module connected to the function module holder for receiving signal from the cellular telephone being installed in one electric plug slot.